how can a cooperation or any other type of organization dictate to us whether or not we should have to pay to view research material for a class. or better still that we cant recreationally expand our knowledge freely they want to tax me to learn? what an incentive, perhaps it is greed and decadence like this which deters american teens and young adult from expanding their horizons to include the galaxy and beyond. methods of taxation are a greedy materialistic interpretaion of of a much larger problem the ego. As human we have a certain sense of what belongs to us we have a sense that we own objects possesions ideals theories and in a few cases other people. how arrogant of us, those very senses stimulate within us a sense of divinity, the illusion of possession, is the illusion of control. while we may feel like we own something and can therefore control the reality of the situation is neither. we own nothing except what remains in our minds. our feelings beleifs,interpretati ons emotions these are things we own these are things which cannot be taken away. everything else is simply a temporary assocation. how can one honestly say and beleive that he or she actually owns another life form or that we own what ever materialistic possesions we have aquired throughout our brief existence. bearing i mind that our existence is just that brief. we live we love we die. thats is the completion of the circle as far as we understand it anyway. if a new circle is born that is subject to personal beleif and interpretation which wwe will not venture into at this juncture. suffice it to say tha the feeling of ownership or possession. is merely an illusion nothing we allegedly own can traverse death with us now can it. can you take your plasma tv to which ever afterlife you choose to beleivein? certainly not. all that leaves the vessel you currently occupy is a concious state of being. and nothing beyond that. once more for reiteration do not proclaim to have r ights and priveleges over an object or another and tell me that if i want it i have to pay you for it. if that was the arragement to begin with then maybe we could havecomprimised; however as such is not the case, DO NOT TREAD ON ME. do not attempt to exploit me on the basis of posseional objectivity when noe exists. your possession and ownership is false and you a fool for beleiving its validity. we as humans can own nothing but that which resides in our mind whats next your going to tax me for thinking, or rape me of my finaces for breathing as well. you and your dillusioned ego have gone to far this time. you are nothing insignificant in the grander scheme of things as am i to be sure the difference is that i acknowledge that fact while you persist an absolute lie. stop perpetuating ignorance, cease fueling the +evil ego within. take a step back and for once see with humbled eyes. stop pretending your a god. realize your fraility on the large scale of the planet. realize that the world doesnot exist to serve your own selfserving egotistical desires. it exists as a communal forum from which life is supposed to flourish uninterrupted. your greed driven machinations will no doubt be final element to which the rise of decadence and social corruption leads to extinction of all that we truly hold dear all that truly matters in life. i blame you i wish you would accept responsibility and blame yourself to but then who would be left to blame. do not tread on my liberty do not exploit my existence. and above all do not allow your flaws to become rampant plagues of ego and greed fueling fire that burn cities to the ground manifestaions that ultimately destroy there creator. what ever god out there if there is one will surely reign hell upon this perverse and decadent cesspool we call home. cease your madness before it is to late. end the trampling of rights the exploitation of many to enrich the lives of a few, ultimately answer me this JUST WHO THE FUCK ARE YOU! to tax me to dictate terms to attempt feeble control over my existence. who are you to do these things what right do you have? the answer is none your merely serving your own interests in a futile attempt to prolong your happiness, what you fail to realize in your infiniite ignorance is that your corrupting raping burning all that you attempt to enrich. you will fail, you will fall, and i will be there to witness it all. take head pay attention. god speed to our noble intention. Capitlaism has made it this way. dont let a few greedy bastards take it all away. do not succumb to this do not give in ti ignorance. stand tall, stand strong. soon i hope soon we will persevere we will wether this storm. do not surrender your individuallity just shed your ego your possesive needs. i apologize for the ranting and i sincerely hope what i said has had an impact. not for my own self inflation, but for the good of the world and especially OUR NATION. SPEAK OUT AGAINST COOPERATE TYRANNY.
